Differences are only barriers if we allow them to be.

TOPIC: Living with a Disability

Do you or does a family member have a disability? How do you talk to people about your or your family member's disability?

Is your home accessible for people with disabilities? If so, why? If not, why?

Employment among the disabled population is significantly lower than among the population in general. Do you think the government should subsidize employment opportunities for people with disabilities?

Who should be responsible for providing support to a person with disability: Family? Religious community? Social service organizations? Government?

Which of these do you consider a disability? Senility or dementia? Dyslexia? Obesity? Habitual Joblessness? Depression? Stuttering? Poverty? Diabetes? If so, why? If not, why?

Is being disabled a permanent or lifelong condition for a person?
